DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-4, 6, and 10-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by O'Hara et al.

As per claim 1, O'Hara et al. discloses a water control system including manifold 12 having hot water inlet 102, cold water inlet 104, a mixing device (water mixes inside manifold 120), temperature sensor 112, and control device 106 having interface 107, power source 614, and control lines 108 and 114.

As per claims 2 and 3, O'Hara et al. discloses proportional valves 102 and 103. While O'Hara does not specifically call the valves being "high flow," this is a matter of degree that is not clearly defined within Applicant's specification, and thus not accorded patentable weight. Further, it is noted that both O'Hara et al. and Applicant's invention are directed to shower applications, and thus presumably have the same levels of water flow.

As per claim 4, O'Hara et al. discloses the mixed output being directed to outlet 113.

As per claim 6, O'Hara et al. discloses the temperature sensor being a thermistor (paragraph [0013], line 2).

Art Unit: 3744

As per claims 10-12, O'Hara discloses controlling the current to valves 102 and 104 in based on the actual temperature from sensor 112 and inputted desired temperature (paragraph [0023]).

As per claim 13, O'Hara et al. discloses AC power 614.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 5 and 7-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over O'Hara et al.

As per claim 5, O'Hara et al. does not teach the mixing device being an in-line mixing fixture disrupting flow to cause turbulence.

As per claims 7-9, O'Hara et al. does not specifically teach control panel having buttons and display, however these are common and typical features of control panels (see for example input device 60 of Kemp) that would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art for the purpose of inputting and reading control information.

Art Unit: 3744
